Grimsby Farm Service Force News & Views

Betty Hollyer, Barbara Selbert and Joan Sesley

Well, we are practically a new camp again, as many of our girls from private schools have gone home to prepare for another year's work.

Twenty-nine new girls from Cornwall and Ottawa have come to fill the vacancies. We wish to welcome them and hope they enjoy their stay as much as we have.

Miss Ross, our recreational adviser, spoke to us last Tuesday night about a swimming meet to be held at the St. Catharines Y.W.C.A., on Tuesday. There are to be competitions for speed swimmers, as well as for the rest of us amateur mermaids.

Sing-songs have been a special feature of our camp life on Sunday evenings. These have been farewell parties, too, for many of the staff, at which small gifts were presented as tokens of appreciation. Among the recipients have been Miss Mary Prenter, our Labour Secretary, Miss Irene Wyatt, her assistant, and Miss Hilda Mather, our dietitian.

Our new secretary, Miss Margaret Winch, is a graduate of the University of Toronto in Occupational Therapy, and has three more months of internship at Toronto General Hospital.

Miss Phyllis, Wellman, her assistant, formerly of London, England, is leaving us to resume her duties as a household economics teacher in Sarnia High School. After taking a refresher course in Art at Queen's, Miss Wellman came to Grimsby to continue her holidays as a farmworker. She was appointed assistant labour secretary, but also enjoyed the outdoor work of farmworkers as well.

We have had additions to our kitchen staff as well as our camp. Miss Hughes, our dietitian, is from Toronto, and the camp assistants are Miss Robinson, late of the British Embassy at Washington, D.C., Mrs. Cornwall and Mrs. Haworth, both residents of Grimsby. Mrs. McDonald and Miss Scobie from the Owen Sound district complete the new staff.

Peaches Sent Detroit Might Steady Prices

The heavy, all-day rains went on during the past week gave some respite to hard-pressed growers and their picking crews, and at the same time enabled basket manufacturers to catch up somewhat on their back orders.

Growers of this district report that while many peaches were knocked from the trees by the deluge, there were still many left for marketing, and those that have remained on the trees are ripening rapidly.

It was also announced this week that some fifty carloads of Alberta peaches were shipped to Detroit from the Niagara Peninsula, in addition to a quantity shipped last week from the Leamington area. The shipment, made in bushel hampers, came on at a time when six-quart containers were becoming hard to obtain. It is also believed that the shipment of this quantity of Alberta peaches out of the local marketing area will do much to relieve congested markets. It is believed that this will lead to considerably firmer markets for the balance of the season.

Just one catch out of many during a two weeks' holiday at Sturgeon Lake by Herbert Bivand and family, Maple Avenue.

To Buy Inhalator For Use Of Both Municipalities

The matter of an inhalator for the town and township, which has been a topic of discussion here since the recent drowning at the foot of Maple Street, has been referred to the joint fire committees of the town of Grimsby and the Township of North Grimsby.

At a recent meeting of the directors of the Lions Club, it was suggested that the local doctors might approach the Town Council with the suggestion that an inhalator be secured, and that training in its use should be given to members of the fire department.

Dr. Benson T. Rogers, who appeared before the council yesterday evening, was told that the matter would be taken up by the joint fire committee, at its next sitting, and this procedure would result in the purchase being a joint undertaking by the two municipalities interested.

Horn Blowers Are Adepts At Suiting Tune To Situation

It is not often that police officers are provided with appropriate music for their work, so it must have been a pleasant surprise for local law enforcement agents when they paid a visit to the Main Street hall where a wedding was being celebrated.

The party was one which created considerable attention for several hours on Monday evening. Above the joyous voices of the celebrants could be heard festive music. The whole thing went on and on without a let-up, and when there seemed to be no flagging of interest two policemen decided that something must be sustaining the merrymakers.

They were right. When they arrived at the hall they found that two kegs of beer had been disposed of, and a third was taken in charge. It was then that the orchestra hired for the occasion did itself proud. Without a pause, into the popular balled "Roll Out The Barrel." The officers were doing just that.

It is believed that a charge of having liquor in an illegal place will be laid against those responsible for the affair.

Will Not Collect Improper Garbage

Objection to the manner in which some householders are preparing their garbage for the collectors was voiced at last night's meeting of the Grimsby Town Council. The discussion arose as Mayor Johnson reported that some people had been placing garbage on the town dump in such a way that the pile encroaches over the roadway. This, the mayor said, resulting in part of the dump not being properly cared for, and a complaint being entered by a citizen with Dr. J. H. MacMillan, local health officer.

"It might be that someone from the township is responsible, but the residents of the town have regular garbage collections. The people who have been doing this just back their cars up and throw their garbage off," said the mayor.

The suggestion was made by Dr. MacMillan that a fence be erected with a gate across the front drive. Some heavy cable is available for this purpose, and the mayor suggested that it should be used.

It was at this point in the discussion that the mayor mentioned household garbage which is collected each week. Ways and means of letting citizens know that improperly prepared garbage, or brush and stones, would not be collected, were advanced, one suggestion being that a printed notice be left by the collectors when they found the garbage unacceptable.

"The collectors do not take stones or brush, and they should not have to empty cans that are dripping with the juices of fruits and vegetables. Those attract flies, and are dangerous to health. There is no need for it," the mayor said.

Apart from garbage thrown on the dump by individuals, the creek was reported to be in good condition, "better than it has been for some time."

It was a grand pageant. But the highlight to me was the inter-

THE INDEPENDENT NO LONGER BEING SENT TO GRIMSBY MEN SERVING OUT OF THE COUNTRY

That this council wishes to convey to The Grimsby Independent their appreciation of the splendid service that paper has given to our boys overseas and in training in Canada by the sending weekly of the Grimsby Independent to them.

This resolution, introduced at last night's meeting of the Grimsby Town Council by Councillor James W. Baker and seconded by Councillor Henry Bull, came after it was decided that the council should take no action in regard to a proposal by Mr. Baker to have the council purchase subscriptions to The Independent for local men serving overseas.

In making his suggestion, Mr. Baker recalled the recent order of the post office authorities prohibiting the sending of individual papers overseas unless they were sent under a paid subscription. The order was designed to effect a saving in shipping space.

Mayor Edric Johnson declared that "if the government thinks it is a proper thing, I do not think we should cut that corner and encourage this matter." The mayor mentioned that some people in Great Britain did not like to see complete Canadian papers sent overseas because of the advertisements. "They will think we are living in a land of plenty—as we are, and it's not good to have them reminded of this continually," he said.

The mayor also mentioned the arrangement had been made where-

Inquest Being Held On Death On R.R. Tracks

An inquest into the death of John Russell, 60, who was killed by a freight train last July 11 while walking the railway tracks near Nelles sideroad, is being held in the council chambers this afternoon. Coroner C. W. Elmore is presiding.

Russell came to this district to find work on local fruit farms, and at the time he met his death it was believed that he was proceeding to Grimsby Beach for a swim.

SMALL SUPPLY OF BEEF HERE

With no rationing scheme being contemplated by the authorities, beef continues to be a scarce quantity on local markets. The shortage, which became acute last week, has continued, though some local dealers have been able to procure limited quantities. It is believed that by the time Saturday comes, supplies of beef on hand will have been all but exhausted.

In other parts of the Niagara Peninsula, notably St. Catharines, supplies of meat have been exhausted all week, and several meat stores have been closed since last Saturday.

Suggest Midnight As Closing Hour For Restaurants

A suggestion that next year's town council consider the advisability of providing for a twelve o'clock curfew on restaurants and eating places in town when the members consider the matter of licenses was made by Mayor Edric Johnson, who commented on the savings which might be affected.

"I would like to see the restaurants of this town, for the sake of good order and quietness, as well as for the saving of tea and coffee and sugar except for certain days, close at twelve o'clock," the mayor said. "It would save light, too, and no one is going to suffer because they are not able to get tea or coffee at that hour. I think, as it is now, it is simply a waste of tea and coffee."

The mayor also objected to new regulations which will put ice cream cones out for the duration, because of the popularity of this confection with the younger generation. "They are more entitled to ice cream cones than we are," he commented. "I would like to see it arranged so that children could get their cones."

Like Itch, Seven Year Warrant Got Local Man Again

Edgar Game Arrested On Non-Support Charge After Deportation From United States—Second Seven-Year-Old Warrant Executed.

Constable William W. Turner was waiting at the bus, and he waited not in vain, for off it stepped a man with a seven year warrant for his arrest which had never been executed. The arrested man, Edgar Game, is charged in the 1935 document with failing to provide support for his wife.

Appearing before Magistrate J. H. Campbell in St. Catharines yesterday morning, he was remanded in custody until next Tuesday.

Game's arrest came when St. Catharines police received a tip that the wanted man was returning by bus to Grimsby from Niagara Falls. When he was arrested, Constable Turner called St. Catharines police, who took him to that city for his court appearance yesterday morning. It is understood that he was recently deported from the United States. He had been living in Philadelphia for the past several years.

By a curious coincidence, Game was arrested prior to the issuing of the 1935 warrant for his arrest, and the warrant on which he was apprehended on that occasion, charging him with the same offense, had been in police files for seven years.

Registrations At Public Schools Up

Attendance at the Grimsby Public School and the Park school shows a rise over last year's registration, though complete 1942 registration figures are not yet available. The school opening last Tuesday morning, which was marked by a heavy fall of rain, found most of the youngsters back at their desks.

Chief reason for the increase is the result of several new families moving into the community. In the Park school, classes total forty pupils.

Three Paid Fines For Sunday Games

Summons will be issued within the very near future against those owners of dogs who have not yet taken out licenses. It was announced at last night's town council meeting. And the offenders, if there are any, will have to face a court composed of the town's chief magistrate and his deputy.

"The magistrate says 'it's your hy-law, you enforce it,' and that is what it looks as if we'll have to do," said Mayor Johnson. The mayor remarked that cases brought before him for non-payment of the dog license had been thrown out of court.

"Be sure and tell us when you're going to court," remarked Committee D. E. Anderson, to the amusement of the mayor and Reeve William Lothian.

SUNDAY, SEPT. 12th

Joseph Sold Into Slavery

Genesis 37:23-26

GOLDEN TEXT

Charity envith not.—1st Corinthians 13:4.

An introduction To The Lesson Joseph, by his generosity in forgiving his brethren, and in his kindness to them was a singular type of Christ—Love is shown not only in forgiving his enemies, but in leading them with benefits. Because Joseph's brethren owed their lives to him, they declared themselves his servants. Should not we also declare ourselves the servants of God.

A Lesson Outline

Joseph a Type of Christ
The beloved of the Father
(Genesis 27:3).
Gifted with prophetic insight
(Genesis 37:5-10).
Hated by his brethren (verse 21).
The messenger of the Father
(verse 18).
Rejected and sold to the gentiles
(verse 25).

The Heart of the Lesson Envy and jealousy are two of the vilest passions of the heart of man. From these may come almost any other sin. They have often resulted in murder and other terrible crimes. Only as the spirit of God controls the heart can we find complete deliverance from these evil passions. Joseph, though the victim of his brethren's hatred and malice, ever exhibited a calm, quiet trust in God, even though he passed through bitter anguish of soul. Let us not harbor in our souls that evil spirit which causes so much mischief and sorrow to others.

Application is the price to be paid for mental acquisition. To have the harvest we must sow the seed.—Gamaliel Bailey.

Firm, Sparkling Jams and Jellies Without Fuss or Failure

SHORT BOIL

For jam you need give only a moment to re-melt the full, rolling boil for jellies only a half-minute to a minute.

THRIFTY

As practically no juice has time to boil away you get up to one half more jam

The King's English

"King's English"

"King's English" is pure or correct speech, such as the king is believed to use. For the greater part of the nineteenth century, during the long reign of Queen Victoria, the phrase was "queen's English."

Perhaps it is not necessary to say that there have been kings and queens of England who did not use correctly the speech of the land over which they reigned. The early Georges, for example, hardly spoke English at all. A person who uses the language incorrectly is said sometimes to "butcher" or "murder" the king's English.

The phrase, "king's English" is very old. Shakespeare uses it in "The Merry Wives of Windsor," act 1, scene 4, he makes Mrs.
Quickly say, referring to Dr.
Caius: "Here will be an old abus-ing God's patience, and the King's English."—Everyday Sayings.

Fruit Butter

It takes a war to make us realize how wasteful dripped jellies are. Try rubbing the cooked fruit through a sieve coarse enough to let all the pulp through, while keeping back the skins and seeds.
Three-quarters of a pound of sugar to a pound of pulp makes a full-bodied product, with none of the food value or distinctive fruit flavour lost. These are called "butters," but in most cases are as clear as jellies. Some fruits "set" well with a smaller quantity of sugar.

Grape Butter—Four pounds
grapes (unprepared). Wash, stem, and "pop" the grapes. Cook until soft. Press through a strainer to remove seeds and skins. Add one pound of sugar to the pulp and cook until thick and clear. Pour into hot, clean glasses and seal.

Fresh Fruits and Vegetables
While fresh vegetables are available in wide variety on the market, it is important to include them in every meal. Fresh fruits are also plentiful and form delicious desserts.

With the coming of the Autumn months, meetings will soon be starting. Now there is a war on, are we going back to the old way of wasting time waiting for them to begin? Concerts, choir practices, bridge games, missionary societies and meetings of all kinds, are afflicted with the creeping paralysis of never beginning on time.

Madam President, Mr. Chairman, you are responsible for the conduct of these meetings. You can change all that. You say you can't start when there is nobody there? If there is no one there when the clock strikes, start with the first person who comes. Keep it up, and after three meetings you'll find the people will be there on time. At the first meeting, few may be on time; the second, several more will be there, and by the third, you will have few late comers. The late comers will be ashamed of disturbing the meeting and will cease to be late comers. Another thing: it is decidedly unfair to those who do come early to be held up waiting for the dilatory ones.

Don't waste time!

Ditched!

We confess to a weakness for ditches! Nowhere else, unless perhaps in the vicinity of a pond, can such a wide variety of plant, animal and bird life be found, provided the ditch is properly neglected.

A certain ditch that started out as a spring brook tumbling down the mountain-side is bordered, as it nears the lake, with a thick growth of sumach (the Canadian palm), cherry, plum and pear gone wild, and an occasional willow, all混 (mixed) together with wild grape, bittersweet, Virginia creeper, wild cucumber, and a neat, pretty vine that we were unable to identify. It has pinnate leaves and little tight bunches of purple, tubate blossoms growing from the axils where the leaves join the main stem.

There was bu. wood, clustered thick with pale green burs, tansey, goldenrod, bergamot, Queen Anne's Lace, artichoke, watercress, purple asters (Anne of Green Gables called them "farewell-summers"), pale Michaelmas daisies, wild raspberry and black-cap, bulrushes, cranesbill gone to seed, jewelweed, pretty pink spikes of smart-weed, and the dry, urn-shaped seed receptacles of campion.

To add a little variety there were ripe berries of three kinds of thorn-apple, scarlet, yellow (that never seem to mature) and dark crimson—almost maroon, as well as the bright fruit of the wild rose. For the first time we met the golden berries of bittersweet.

In early summer this ditch should be the favourite haunt of snakes, but by September they are resting up for winter. There were twittering little ground birds, greybirds, a few robins, wrens and goldfinches and, nearer the lake, clouds of gulls. Last spring's empty nests are revealed as the leaves thin out on the gnarled trees.

"The lands are lit with all the autumn blaze of goldenrod, and everywhere the purple asters nod and bend and wave and tilt."

Helen Hunt

Cur Weekly Recipe

Grape juice put up this fall will be a real help in offsetting the tea shortage. It can be served at most of the functions where the cup that cheers was wont to hold sway. Here is the standard recipe. To get over the sugar difficulty—for there is no sugar allowance for fruit juices—try a small boiling, using corn syrup in the same proportion as sugar.

Grape Juice—Wash grapes; remove from stems. Heat slowly until skins burst, cook until very soft; stir constantly. Drip in jelly bag. To four cups of grapes add one cup sugar (or corn syrup); stir till dissolved; heat to boiling. Pour into sterile bottles and seal.

This makes a festive and refreshing summer drink, too. And why not experiment with other fruit juices?

The September Garden

Miss Mallow, our next-door neighbour, took advantage of the Labour Day holiday to plant her spring-flowering bulbs—two long rows of them down each side of the path that slopes to the edge of the woods. Next spring there will be a gallant show of tulips in full view of our garden window. It was quite a piece of work for one pair of hands, but it takes more than hard work to daunt Miss Mallow where her garden is concerned. Every bit of work pays for itself many times over in pleasure, health and a happy mind, she says. And looking at her and talking to her, you believe it.

All the planting, dividing and replanting should be done by the middle of September, she tells us, so is getting at it betimes. Next Saturday afternoon she plans to divide some of her fine peonies, wind and weather permitting. You leave three to five buds in each division, and cover them with not more than three inches of light soil, or only two inches, if your soil is heavy.

We asked her when she was going to take up her gladioli. "Most of them are ready to harvest now," she said, "when you see the foliage turning brown is the strategic moment. See that the corms are dried off well before you store them. My cellar is dry, so I'm packing them in dry sand. People with dampish cellars should tie the corms in bunches and hang them to the joists, or put them in paper bags."

Just then visitors from Dunnville drove into the yard and we had to fly.

"Behold congenial Autumn comes,
The Sabbath of the year!"—Logan.

Our Weekly Poem

DUNSLY GLEN

There is no road to Dunslay Glen,
I should not know the way again
Because the fairies took me there,
Down by a little rocky stair—
A little stair all twists and turns,
Half-hidden by the springing ferns.

High overhead the trees were green,
With little bits of blue between,
So high that they could see, I'm sure,
Beyond the wood, beyond the moor,
The water many miles away
Mistily shining in the bay.

Deep in the glen a streamlet cool
Ran down into a magic pool
With many caverns all about Where fairies fluttered in and out;
Their sparkling wings in golden hair
Made dancing twinkles here and there.

I stood and watched them at their play
Until I dared no longer stay;
I knew that I might seek and seek
On every day of every week
But I should find the place again.
There is no road to Dunslay Glen.

Boil Fish In Parchment Paper

Parchment paper in which fish is boiled may be used several times, so long as it hasn't been pricked by bones. Wash and rinse or "wet" as soon as the fish and its juices have been removed, dry and put away for further use. When it can no longer be used for its original purpose it makes an excellent dishcloth. Parchment used in oven cooking of fish cannot be used a second time, but as in boiling fish it keeps all the food elements, and is inexpensive to buy.

LANDSCAPE PHOTOGRAPHY

It pays to include objects, such as these trees, in the foreground of your landscape pictures.

LANDSCAPES always have been—and probably always will be—popular picture subjects. But there's a technique to making good landscapes, and the photographer who wants to consistently produce first rate results will do well to keep it in mind.

The technique is based principally upon a theory of selection. Most beginners try to include too much in each picture. Therefore, the first rule for successful landscape photography is to select your subject carefully. Aim for simplicity in arrangement and composition; avoid overcrowding. Beware of extremely general scenes. Don't always try to picture a whole valley or mountain range with one snapshot. A half-dozen pictures, each showing one interesting portion of the panorama, will result in much more enjoyable and appealing snapshots.

Second, learn to avoid subjects which appear to be divided into two equal parts. For example, sometimes a tree will be standing in such a position that it seems to be cutting the picture in half. In another case, the horizon line may run directly across the center of the snapshot. The exact center of any picture is usually its weakest spot so don't concentrate too much attention there.

Technically, the secret of good landscape pictures lies in straightforward photo technique. However, here are a few tips. Look for side-lighted scenes. On most outdoor shots use a medium $1/125$ of a second. It will help you get cloud effects. And finally, to add depth to your picture, include some objects such as a tree, a house, a person, or an animal in the foreground. Notice how the trees in the foreground add depth to our illustration. This picture, incidentally, illustrates the type of landscape effects you can get at the sunset hour.

But most important of all, just take the time, and devote some thought to working out your landscape pictures. You'll be well repaid with higher quality results.

Our Own Todd Russell!

Seems back in the somewhat distant past of Hamilton's first radio station, a certain well-known entertainer by the name of Todd Russell, used to do his stuff from the then 1130 airmen—that was back in '34-'35! After spending a couple of years outside CKOC he returned to the station as an announcing-piano player and all round personality. In the latter part of '36 greener fields beckoned and our own Todd Russell started the important climb to national stardom. He has been heard consistently from the now 1150 airmen for quite some time now on one program and another, and it's with real pleasure that CKOC presents Todd Russell daily with Claire Wallace in that mighty fascinating program, "They Tell Me", at 1:45 p.m. Monday through Friday. Incidentally, we're thinking that when you tune in the 1150 station at one o'clock on Monday and give an ear to the full-hour program run from one to two o'clock, you'll be a daily dialer to CKOC. At one o'clock you'll hear radio's greatest serial, NBC's "Betty and Bob"—at 1:15 the incomparable Happy Gang—and at 1:45 Todd Russell and Claire Wallace! And that's a daily treat—every Monday through Friday that you hear this hour of entertainment from CKOC. Make it a listening habit.

Prior to his first broadcast of the new season—last Sunday night at 8:00 o'clock, Edgar Bergen with his diamond studded dummies Charlie and Mortimer, took a flying trip to Alaska and entertained the boys of Canada and the United States. Originally scheduled for just a couple of shows, the boys had to hold over their dates for a much longer run. Bergen's wardrobe wasn't equal to the occasion, especially on one particularly cold night. A friendly eskimo (no report on whether he appreciated the Bergen-McCarthy-Mortimer humor), gave Edgar a smart "parka" and all the trimmings. Publicity reports state "It saved Bergen's night!"

MK News!

Perhaps one of the greatest "Cine does not Pay" dramas to come to radio is "Calling All Cars". It's a potent, dynamic show, that rivets one's attention to the drama, the story, and the moral! Full half hour shows, they are expertly dramatized and produced from the Columbia Network, with New York's finest radio stars. They come to CKOC on Sunday, September 18th (this Sunday) at 6:15, replacing the Academy

SKILL OF BRITISH SURGEONS IN RED CROSS HOSPITALS IS FACTOR IN PREVENTING SCARS ON FACE OF CANUCK AIRMEN

By GARRY ALLIGHAN

London—Women and girls in hundreds of Canadian towns and villages are helping bring healing and health to Canadian airmen who have passed through a hell of fire. In five hospital centres in this country are men of the R.C.A.F. whose faces and heads limbs and bodies would bear forever the disfigurement of serious burning if it were not for the groups of women-folks, including their own loved ones, who gather regularly in Canada under the sign of the Red Cross and roll bandages, prepare guaze, lint, pack vaseline and provide sulphuramide powder which are the ingredients with which skilled nurses and doctors here perform miracles.

Most cases of severe burnings are airmen who have baled out from blazing planes or crashed and their unconscious bodies have been dragged from flaming wreckage. Others are the Canadian soldiers who have been involved in grenade accidents. Others are women and children whom the Red Cross have helped rescue from the effects of German incendiary bomb raids.

Skin grafting and bone grafting form the central operation of this new science of healing. It is a longish job because not even the resources of the efficient Canadian Red Cross are sufficient to make Dame Nature increase her tempo.

Not even the skill of Canadian surgeons can make the leisurely Dame grow skin at a faster rate than she has grown it since the protoplasmic era. Not even the brilliance of Canadian surgeons is able to make skin from the body of one person grow on the body of another.

Treatment is Lengthy

And so the technique which is saving Canadian airmen from dis-

Award Series. You'll be gripped as never before by the radio action drama found in each episode of Calling All Cars!

Newest highlight in radio thrill-fare is "The Mystery Club" Sunday on CKOC feature at 4:30 p.m. Couple this with the new "Calling all Cars" starting this Sunday, and there are two outstanding half-hour dramatic treats in one day's broadcasting!

Hit Parade favorites (1:30 Sunday on CKOC) include two new Irving Berlin favorites: Stage door Canteen, and Be Careful My Heart!

bursements is a lengthy treatment. I have just seen a young pilot officer from Regina who has been under treatment for nearly two years. When his plane crashed in flames and his charred body was rushed to the hospital in one of the 222 ambulances which the Canadian Red Cross have provided, even the doctor blushed at the hideous sight, gritted his teeth and said: "He is doomed for life unless I can work a miracle," and began work. It has been two years of saline bathing, sulphuramide powdering, vaseline dressing and patient skin grafting. After his charred flesh had been nursed back to life as it had granulated healthily, the doctor covered it with segments of skin taken from other parts of his body, patch by patch, carefully amputating patches, together so that they covered the large burned area with perfect skin. There is now no sign to suggest that the airmen ever looked as he did when his scorched body was carried into hospital. I congratulated the surgeon on the miracle and he brushed it aside. "It was the boy's courage as much as surgical skill," he said, "and both would not have been sufficient without surgical dressings which the women at home supplied, and medicinal foods which the Canadian Red Cross

Lined 3,522 Dressings

That is one case which used 3,522 of the 5,000,000 surgical dressings which the Red Cross have sent from Canada to this country and I do not know how much of the invalid delicacies he has consumed. Not as much as an R.C.A.F. pilot who has suffered serious burns and head injuries when his plane crashed. For 500 days and nights he has been in the doctors' hands and recently he got a discharge. He is literally a new man. There is hardly a square inch of his body that is covered with the same skin it was covered with two years ago. Yet he is one of the most handsome men in the Canadian uniform today.

The skin from his legs and stomach has been slowly grafted on to his arms and upper face while the hair-growing skin from the back of his neck has been grafted on to the lower part of his face. Pelvis bones have been grafted into the front of his head and they formed a new forehead. All these major operations made it impossible for a man to take ordinary food and so for 500 days he has been fed through a tube with concentrated essences of fruit juices, soups and medicinal foods which the generous Canadian public has enabled the Red Cross to provide. He is now in the recreation room undergoing occupational therapy which encourages him to regain functional use of his muscles. "Looks crazy, doesn't it?" said he. "Me sitting here plaiting raffia into baskets when I'm itching to be in a Spitfire again."

Idle Machinery Is Needed For Essential War Jobs

On hundreds of farms, as well as in plants and factories across Canada, urgently needed machinery is lying idle, according to Hon. C. D. Howe, Minister of Munitions and Supply, who points out that idle machinery is put to work essential war industries will suffer.

Instead of buying new machinery, the minister advises, farmers and plant managers should try to borrow, rent or purchase used machinery. In the case of farmers or plant operators where idle machinery is located, the patriotic thing to do is, let someone else make use of the equipment not now being used. Any machinery which cannot be turned to immediate essential use should be scrapped to make new steel.

Mr. Howe's remarks followed an order issued by F. B. Kilbourn, steel controller, who has ruled that it is now illegal, except by permit, to retain scrap iron or steel weighing 500 pounds or more. Scrap metal must be disposed of before September 15 or reported to the Used Goods Administrator.

Clean Up Sweet Corn Patches Now

Science Service News

Although the European corn borer was not so abundant in Eastern Canada in 1942 as it was in 1941, damage to sweet corn was, however, fairly heavy in many sections of Ontario. This crop is practically all harvested now, but the borers are still to be found in the standing stalks and in the unshelled ears. Some of the borers will remain in the stalks until next spring but many will migrate to woods and other refuse about the garden or to unhusked corn to continue their work of destruction. Before this takes place, it would be sound practice to destroy the old sweet corn remnants, including stalks, ears and roots, says Alan G. Duskin, in charge of Vegetable Investigations, Dominion Department of Agriculture, Ottawa. This could be done in various ways but in some of the drier districts one of the best ways would be to feed them to stock in the pastures. The parts not eaten should later be gathered up and burned. Where supplementary feeding is not necessary, the plants, including the roots, should be piled in one corner of the field and burned, or destroyed by burying them deeply in the soil or in the manure pile where they would serve as humus.

Cobs saved for seed should be carefully examined for the presence of borers and infested ones discarded, or the insects destroyed.

In cases where the borer is working inside the cob, it can usually be killed by forcing a stout wire into the tunnel and puncturing the in-

Wartime Housing Across Canada Aids Thousands Of War Workers

With small villages and towns suddenly becoming centres for hundreds of war plants and factories, the need for proper housing has never been more important than it is today. Almost two years ago a company known as Wartime Housing Limited was set up under the Department of Munitions and Supply, to help alleviate the acute shortages of living quarters in almost every section of Canada. Through their efforts, in the near future over 11,000 families will be living in Wartime houses. They will be able to live in quarters which are healthful, not overcrowded, and which are new and clean.

Aside from these thousands of sect. This, of course, would only be practical where a few cobs were being saved or where the seed was particularly valuable. It should be borne in mind, however, that the European corn borer is able to pass the winter successfully in the ears and for this reason these should be looked upon as a potential menace.

Cobs saved for seed should be carefully examined for the presence of borers and infested ones discarded, or the insects destroyed. In cases where the borer is working inside the cob, it can usually be killed by forcing a stout wire into the tunnel and puncturing the in-work of destruction.

Cleaning up the fields now will save work later on and will prevent the movement of many borers from the old sweet corn stalks to other food plants and hibernating quarters for the winter from which they will be ready to emerge in the spring to carry on their work of destruction.

GOVERNMENT INSURANCE IN CASE OF WAR DAMAGE TO PROPERTY OWNERS OF PROPERTY ARE URGED TO INSURE AGAINST LOSS BY ENEMY ACTION

The Government of Canada, by Act of Parliament, has set up a Plan of War Risk Insurance against damage to property caused by enemy action—by countermeasures taken against the enemy—by explosions of war munitions handled by third parties.

In terms of general information, it may be stated that the Plan provides a certain limited FREE COMPENSATION for damage to owner-occupied homes and to chattels, but the main feature of the Plan is that owners of most types of property can protect their property by PURCHASE of GOVERNMENT WAR RISK INSURANCE at very moderate rates.

This type of War Risk Insurance is not being sold today by private insurance companies, because of the risk involved. Consequently, the Government has established a national scheme to make it possible for each citizen in Canada to purchase the sense of security that comes from knowing that if his property does suffer war damage (and the war has come much closer to Canada in the last twelve months) he can call on the resources of Canada to help him make good his property loss.

HOW TO OBTAIN GOVERNMENT WAR RISK INSURANCE

The Fire Insurance Agents and Companies of Canada have volunteered to the Government the services of their extensive facilities and personnel, on a non-profit basis, thus avoiding the setting up of the large organization that otherwise would be needed to handle details of this nation-wide Government War Risk Insurance scheme.

YOUR FIRE INSURANCE AGENT OR COMPANY WILL GLADLY SUPPLY COMPLETE DETAILS OF THIS GOVERNMENT INSURANCE PLAN.

THIS ANNOUNCEMENT IS PUBLISHED so that the public may have notice of the Government War Risk Insurance Scheme. The information given above is not intended to be a complete review of the Scheme. Full information regarding conditions, exclusions, etc., is available elsewhere.

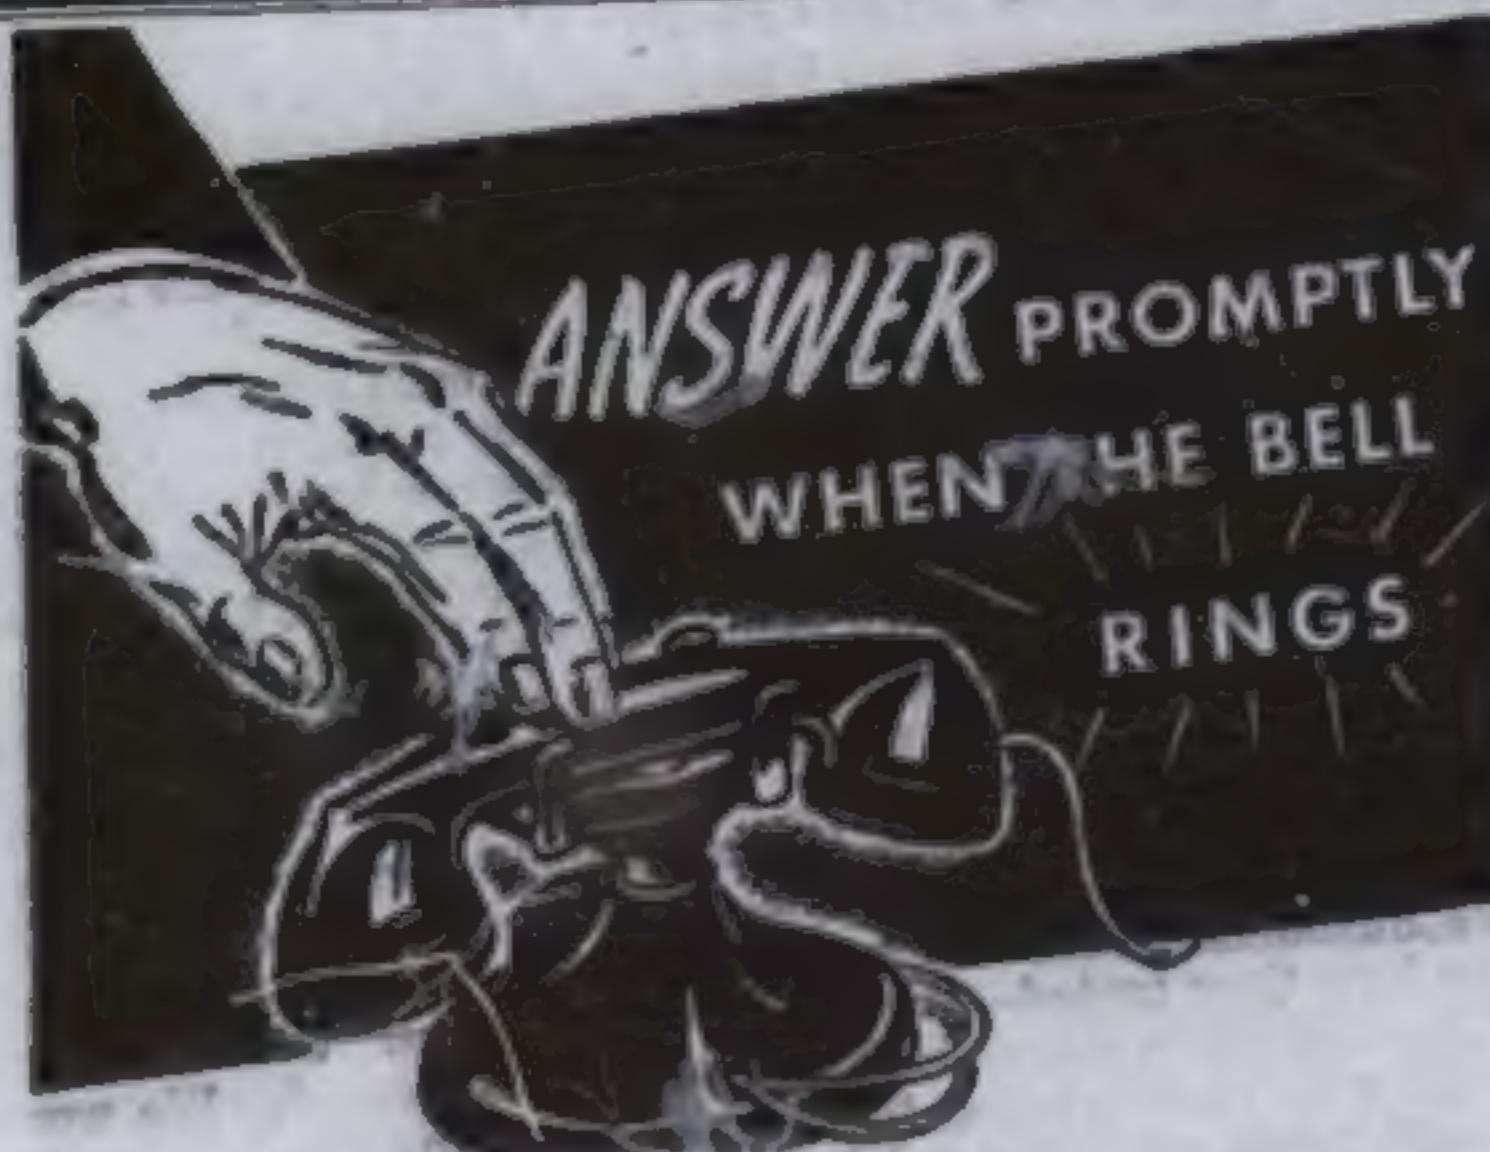

FULL DETAILS FROM ANY FIRE INSURANCE AGENT OR COMPANY

TO HOME OWNERS, HOUSEHOLDERS AND OTHERS

Limited free compensation is provided under the Act for War Damage by enemy action to owner-occupied homes up to $3,000. Damage to Household's Chattels, up to $100—for those of his wife, up to $400—for each child under 16, up to $100—for others, not householders, up to $200.

No policies are needed in this classification but insurance additional to the above amounts may be purchased.

Ask any Fire Insurance Agent or Company for complete details.

Shorter Shopping Hours

WHAT has been the hope of merchants' associations in countless communities has been realized at last, not through a mutual agreement entered into by the merchants, but through an order curtailing retail selling hours to fifty-six hours per week. In Grimsby this order should create little hardship, thanks to the Wednesday afternoon holiday which has been in effect here for many years.

Fifty-six hours of shopping would allow for store openings at nine o'clock each morning, and their closing at six in the evening, with an extra two hours on Saturday evening. The Wednesday afternoon closing means that extra hours are available for Saturday evening, but in no case may a store remain open in the evening later than ten o'clock.

One would like to think that, when no useful wartime purpose would be served by the further enforcement of these regulations, they would remain in force through nothing more than an appreciation of their common sense by merchants generally. In order to get their shopping done properly, buyers would have to regulate their hours a little bit, but not a great deal. The habit of stores remaining open longer than is necessary would be a thing of the past. There is no reason why all necessary shopping cannot be done during fifty-six hours in the week. People will still have to buy clothing and groceries and hardware and after a short period they will become accustomed to the new hours.

The Habit Spreads

CRITICISM can well be voiced against the motion pictures of the Dieppe raid which are being shown in current newsreels in the theatres of the dominion. Watching them, and listening to the commentators, one would be led to believe that the whole engagement was an American operation with a few British and Canadian soldiers participating. The fact of the matter is that less than one hundred United States troops were used in the engagement, and the affair was preponderantly a Canadian one. The United States soldiers were taken along for the fighting experience on which American troops training will be based.

United States news writers who covered the Dieppe expedition expressed amazement when their own newspapers took the same line on the days following the raid. They were there, and they saw with their own eyes the extent of the American participation. When leading United States papers came out with streamer headlines regarding the American role in the engagement, they immediately wired their offices to register a strong protest.

But after all, Americans learn fast. They are doing the same thing which our Canadian papers have been doing since the war started. It little behoves Canadians, who have been accepting our headline-writers' habit of looking through the wrong end of the telescope three years to offer any comment or criticism. The situation in the Dominion has been just as bad or worse than that which is developing in our neighbouring republic.

Hitler Has Grimsby Friends

REUMOURS have been going the rounds here regarding a rationing of clothing which is supposed to be in the immediate offing. It has resulted in something of a buying spree on a minor scale as those who were born in one minute succession have placed orders for new suits and other articles of apparel. Although everyone would like to see the war won and Herr Hitler relegated to some unmentionable place, the fact remains that he has some unwitting allies in this district.

Spreading this rumour and others like it is unpatriotic in two ways. It creates fears and doubts in the minds of citizens, and it starts some of our weak sisters on a buying spree when conservation is necessary. It is playing the Axis game with a vengeance, and brings home the import of the statement recently made by the commissioner of the Royal Canadian Mounted Police to the effect that some sort of prosecution of these rumour-mongers should be, and might be started.

As things now stand, there is no indication that rationing is in the future plans of the Wartime Prices and Trade Board. Some lines of clothing have been curtailed, some styles dropped, and a definite argument in favour of sensible buying advanced. Apart from that, there is still enough clothing for all. The cloth has already been made, and it cannot be reprocessed economically so that it can be converted to uniforms. At some time in the distant future regulations might have to be adopted to curb buying and assure an equitable distribution of clothing to all citizens. Such a move is still a long way off.

Those who have been the agency whereby such stories have been given credence do themselves or their country little credit. They have not actually hindered the war program. If the laws now standing were invoked and prosecutions undertaken against those who have "inside information", the few who would pay a stiff fine or go to jail would serve as a much-needed example to those who are inclined to let their tongues run away with them.

Police Still Busy

INDICATIONS that police action is prompt and to the point regarding the numerous floaters who are sleeping through this district is welcome news to the whole community. On several occasions this page has remarked on conditions of drunkenness which have prevailed. The situation was not exaggerated in any way. A survey of the situation reveals that several homes have been entered by "blitzkriegs" when only the lady of the house was present. On several occasions these unwelcome guests have forced their way in, and the help of neighbours was required to eject them.

The activities of our local police during recent weeks cannot pass without a word of commendation. The lives these men are leading add nothing to the community. Rather they detract from it to a marked degree. When a situation develops to such an extent that women are bothered in their own homes, then something is radically wrong. The present course of action undertaken by the police department should go a long way toward clearing the picture.

Inadequate Planning

NOTHING else, the meeting held by the citizens of Thorold last Tuesday evening to discuss the closing down of the paper mills in that municipality showed a distinct lack of foresight on the part of those responsible for the operation of our war program.

The first intimation that some change was contemplated in the power supplied to these plants was the blunt word of the power controller that there would be no available electrical energy after the first of October. Quite rightly, a committee composed of town officials, members of the various unions concerned, and citizens, made representations in Ottawa and Toronto. In Ottawa they were told by the minister of munitions and supply that the shutdown was necessitated by the manpower situation, while the director of national selective service claimed it was not a matter of manpower, but of electrical energy. In the face of these two conflicting statements made to the committee which visited Ottawa, there can be little wonder at the bewilderment which the power curtailment announcement created.

On top of this situation came the announcement that a certain proportion, approximately one third, of the power formerly supplied to the mills at Thorold would be available. This, and the conflicting statements of the two officials, following the announcement that no power would be supplied after the first of October, led many of the citizens to wonder whether or not they were the victims of an arbitrary action taken at the behest of competitors of the chief Thorold plant.

At the meeting this week speaker after speaker made it plain that any sacrifice they are called upon to make that would further the war effort would be acceptable, but they also made it clear that they had not been shown that substantial reasons existed for the order of the power controller.

The order, it seems, was made without any previous warning, and without any intimation of what was planned for the hundreds of men and women thrown out of employment. Doubtless they will all find employment in some other factory, but the short notice between the time of the announcement and the actual closing of the mills leaves them with every reason to believe that they will be the victims of bungling of skill.

It was stated that adequate plans would be made to transplant the workers into other plants, pay for their transportation in the event their work takes them outside the community, pay a subsistence allowance of five dollars per week if they should have to board away from their homes, and by means of a differential subsidy amounting to not more than five dollars per week, compensate them for whatever reduced income they would have to receive. It might be mentioned that the Thorold employees are among the highest-paid workers, year in and year out, in the Dominion.

Under ordinary circumstances, these provisions would seem quite reasonable, but the first of October is very close, and there has been no plan or formula yet announced for the transplantation of the man-power which will be released at that date.

These plans are not formulated and put into effect over night. They require long and studied consideration. The citizens of Thorold, have every reason to be uneasy and to ask questions which should have been answered at the same time they were told that their regular employment was out for the duration.

As matters now stand, they see little being done to conserve electrical energy. They are wondering about the Ogoki diversion, and why it has never been sanctioned by the federal authorities, and whether or not it would be able to make up the shortage of electrical power now being experienced in the Niagara Peninsula. The people of Thorold are willing to go a long way, but they have every right to be clear in their own minds that the path chosen for them by their representatives will prove the best in the end. They should be told in language that is both plain and authoritative.

SAID AND WRITTEN

CALL FOR ACTION

The organization of the United Nations is progressing. The unity of effort is growing. So far the main burden of the struggle against Nazi Germany has been borne by the U.S.S.R., but we expect before long that this burden will be more equally shared by our Allies. The sooner this happens the nearer will be our victory and the smaller the price we shall have to pay for it.

Ivan M. Maisky, Soviet Ambassador to Great Britain.

NO GRUMBLING THERE

We elderly ones do not grumble. Nor, indeed, do we ever forget to be thankful for our comparative security and comfort. If we confessed our innocent thoughts many of us would say that there is something satisfying in the useful lives we try to lead now . . . Life is simpler, and we older folk welcome the voluntary tasks now ready to our hands, for it is by doing them that we can best support the gallant young men who are fighting for our freedom.

W. L. Andrews, editor, the Yorkshire Post.

LIBERTY—A DREAM

"Do not be afraid of dreaming dreams. The idea of liberty itself began as a dream, an apparently impossible dream. It only became a fact through the ceaseless and unaided efforts of men who worked and fought for years and for generations for the faith that was in them. If you can translate the ideal of the United Nations into a permanent reality, then from the blood and suffering ordeal will rise a better world than any of us have ever known."

Harold Butler, British Minister to the United States.

GROWING STRONGER

Happily, our good right arm is strong and growing stronger. In our own country, in the countries of our brother allies, the people who live by the sweat of their brows have risen mightily to the challenge of the struggle. They have given their sons to the military services. They have stoked the furnaces and hurried the factory wheels. They have made the planes and welded the tanks, riveted the ships and rolled the shells. Production of war materials here is now the greatest in our history, but it is not yet enough. It will be greater still.

President Roosevelt in his Labour Day Statement.

TWENTY YEARS LOST

"My generation wasted twenty years without ever working out a procedure and a machinery for making the world safe for democracy and for humanity. That old international order was good enough for the peace-loving and law-abiding countries. But it was not good enough for determined aggressors."

"We must rid ourselves of the prejudice that force is something inherently evil and to be avoided in any idealistic scheme of world reconstruction. We must learn to think with Pascal, the French philosopher, that justice without force is impotent. And we must learn that the old idea of balance of power will never work again and must be replaced by a new concept of overwhelming power based on law and order."

Dr. Hu Shih, retiring Chinese Ambassador to the United States.

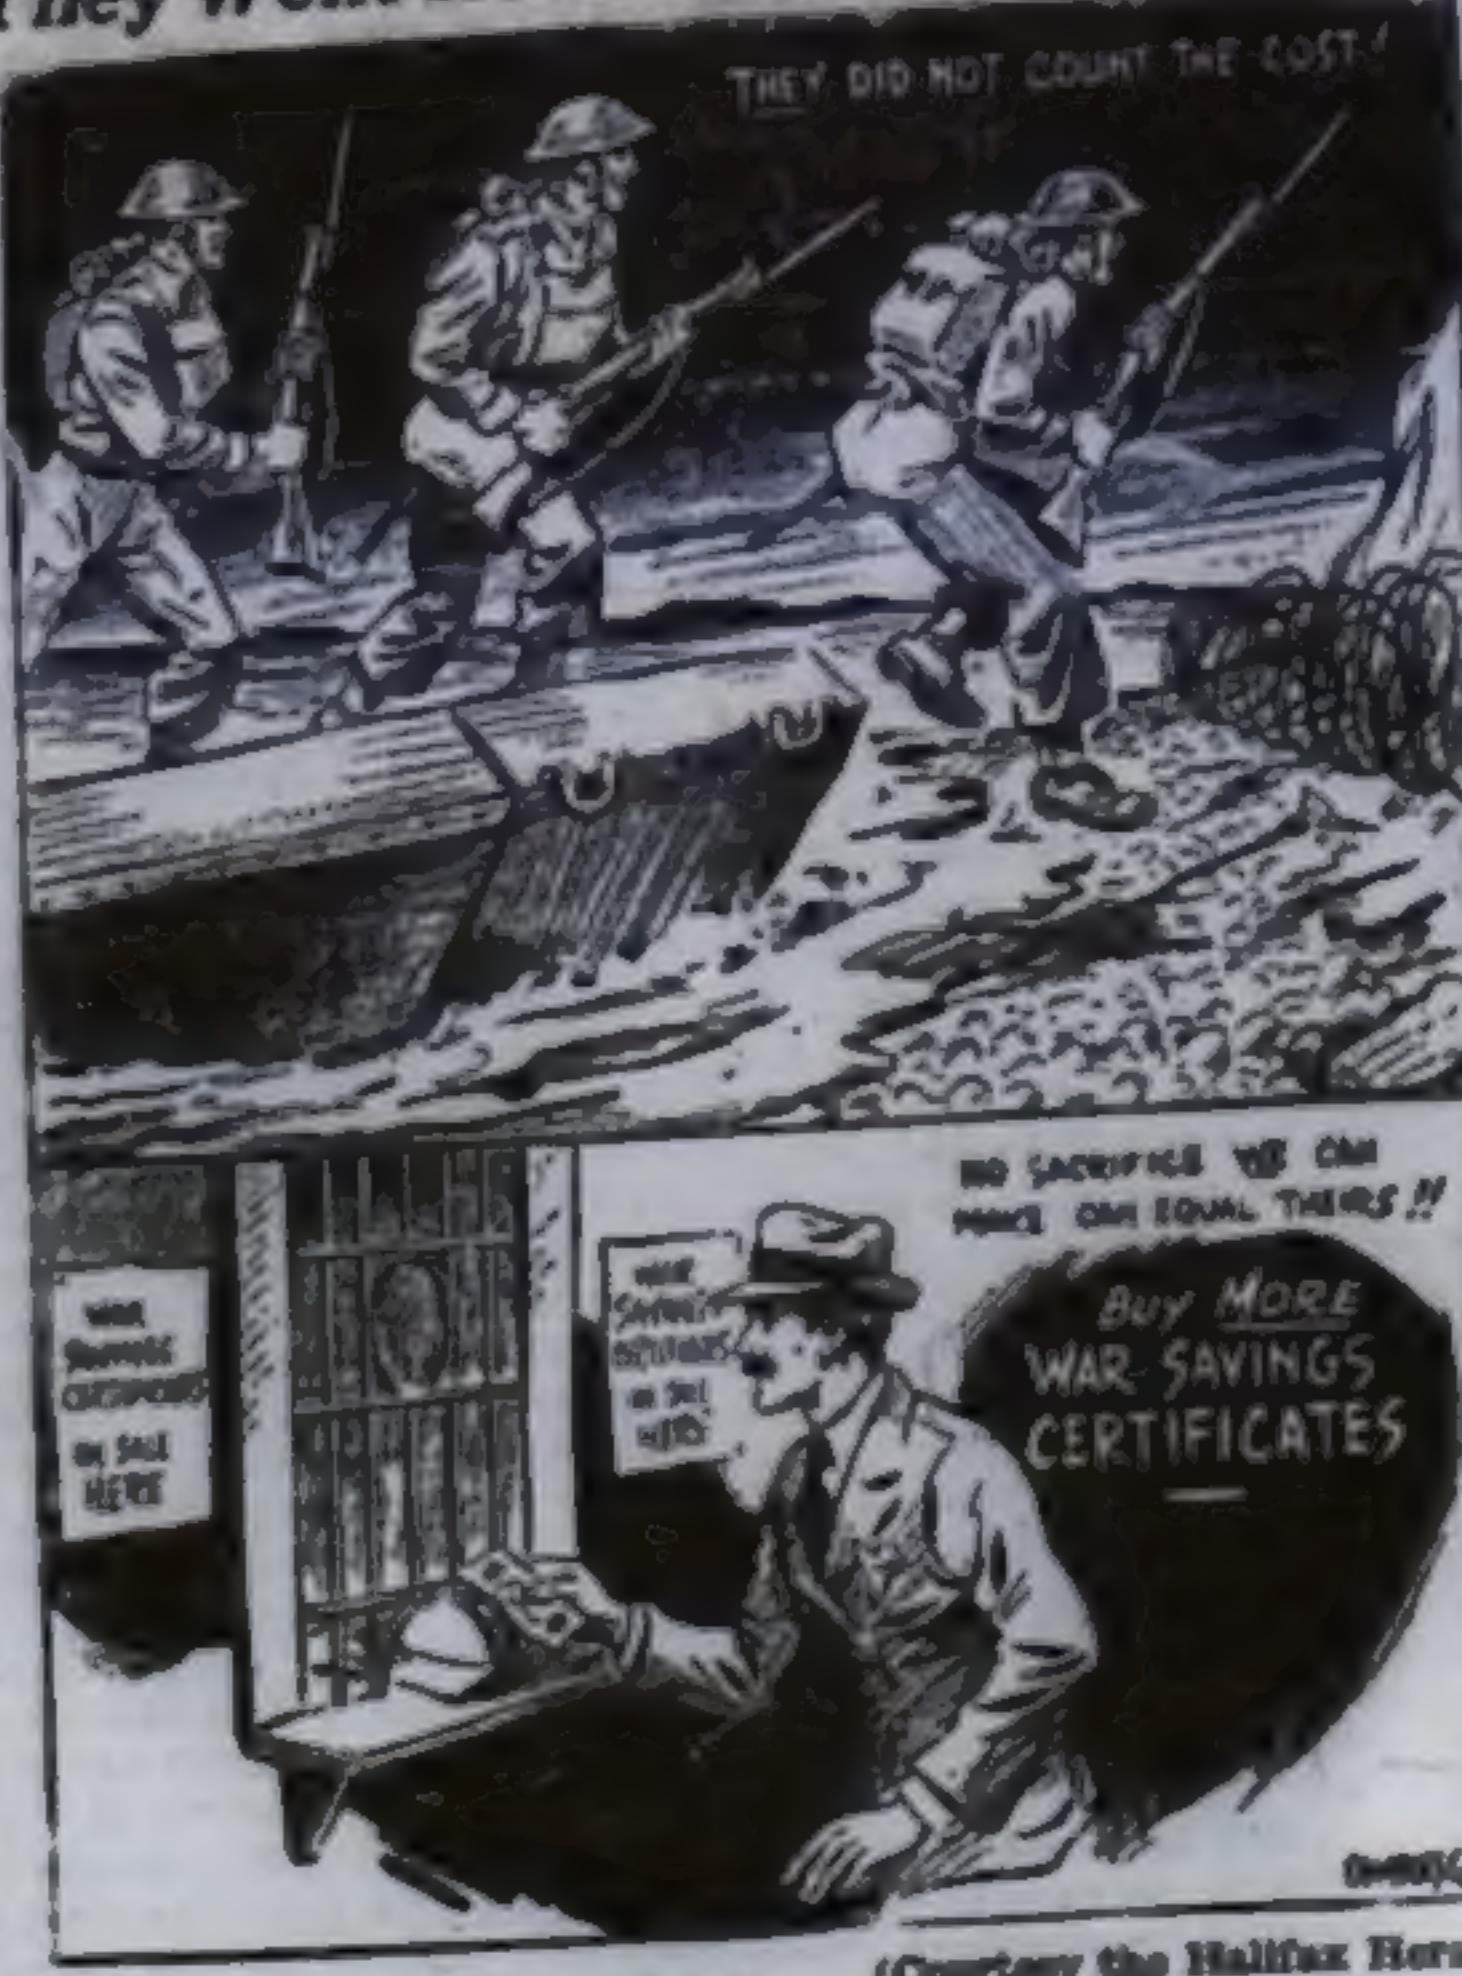

WORDS OF YESTERYEAR

PENALIZED OPINION

It is true that we no longer put heretics to death; and the amount of penalization of modern feeling would robustly tolerate, even against the most obnoxious opinions, is not sufficient to extirpate them. But let us not flatter ourselves that we are yet free from the stain even of legal persecution. Penalties for opinion still exist by law, and their enforcement still exist by law, even in these times, so let us make it at all times a rule that they should not be applied as to any case that they should be revived in full force.

John Stuart Mill, from his essay on "the Liberty of Thought and Discussion," 1859.

Peaches and Camouflage

Written for The Independent by R. J. Deachman

GOOD peaches are grown in Canada. We doubted it for some time, now we know—our doubts have been dispelled, we have seen with our own eyes.

It happened this way. When the season arrived at which peaches might readily be bought we purchased a basket. Through the red gauze they looked rich and ripe, made one think of peaches and cream and peach pie. Behind the mask they were not what they should have been. They were green, they would not ripen. They turned brown, rotted without ripening. We tried to stew—is that the right word?—the fragments that remained. Even then they shrivelled—no one could eat them. We were sore. We swore. We would buy no more.

Alas for one who in the past had eaten good peaches that pledge was difficult to keep—a pledge to oneself is easily broken—and anyway what's the difference. We tried again. On top they looked hopeful, lower down too green for use—the effort failed.

There was a grocer in town with a reputation. He charged more—that gave him the reputation. He was bold and honest. He ripped away the red gauze of deceit. Right before his eyes we lifted the two top layers—they were good—I mean not bad. Below they were green. But the camouflage was good. If our corvettes could use camouflage as skillfully as our peach growers they would be on top of the enemy before he could say "Jack Robinson", or whatever a German sub-commander says when he hears the death rattle of a depth charge.

Now we know there are good peaches. We have a friend who lives in the Niagara Peninsula. One day he walked in with a package under his arm. We regarded it anxiously. It was a box 16½ inches by 9½ inches and 3 inches deep. The top of the box was beautifully printed. The wording had a lovely sound when uttered slowly:

TREE RIPENED PEACHES
PACKED FOR THOSE WHO APPRECIATE
GOOD QUALITY

We opened the box like a bride unwrapping the gift of her richest uncle.

There they were—fifteen of them each snuggled down in a little compartment of its own. Not a touch of camouflage in the lot—soft paper on the bottom to keep them from being bruised. The perfect complexion needs no boost from the arts of the beautician. They were lovely with the natural color of real peaches. We cannot tell you what they are worth—there are some things beyond price. Their soft faces glowed up at us as we stood looking at them as something once lost but now regained.

We measured one—it was 9 inches in circumference and 9½ inches the other way—measuring over the stem end. We husbanded them as a miser does gold. We cannot tell you how they tasted—there are times when the greatest things a earth must be forever the unexpressed. We wondered whether we finished them if, in time, the peach growers would throw away the red flag which—to put it kindly—misrepresents so many baskets of peaches sold—and give us again a product such as, in days of old, we know so well and loved so much.

To the honor of the town of Grimsby, from which these better peaches came, we dip our fingers in token of profound regard.

When A Nation Prays

The Christian Science Monitor

AS the fourth year of the war began, a great nation knelt in prayer. And arose refreshed, hearts strengthened, faith renewed, and rededicated to the battle against the evil forces that would, if they could, outlaw all prayer, all reverence, all religion.

For fifteen minutes, not a wheel turned, not a hammer fell, not a hand moved in Great Britain's war production effort. Yet in that brief period, the Nation fortified itself in a way beyond any power of machine or shell or tanks or guns, to fortify it.

A people spiritually quickened through three years of war, prayed not for quick deliverance, but for courage to meet whatever comes, workmanlike for victory, and for the establishment of peace and goodwill.

Mr. Justice P. H. Gordon, chairman of the National Executive, Canadian Red Cross Society, in a recent visit to the Hamilton Depot, told of cabling British authorities a promise that Canada will send 75,000 parcels a week to prisoners of war in Europe. This is an increase of 25,000 weekly over the present rate. With the establishment of a packing depot in Western Canada, it is expected the country's total output will be increased to 111,000 weekly. Mr. Gordon gave the first intimation that the Red Cross intends to send its prisoner-of-war parcels through to the Far East and told of negotiations already under way.

A bright feature of this gigantic task is the fact that the parcels are getting through to the men. The number of prisoner-of-war acknowledgment cards received at the Bureau in Ottawa is now well over 200,000.

What!
No Oranges?

There is no need to worry about a possible shortage of imported citrus fruits from which we have been accustomed to obtain our requirements of vitamin C. The exigencies of war have brought to the surface the fact that, on the whole, most vegetables are much richer sources of vitamin C than most fruits. The proverb about "an apple a day" would have been much nearer the truth if it had run "some cabbage each day." People whose main source of this vitamin in a daily apple are getting from it only about one-eighth of their vitamin C requirements.

Mothers who have come to regard orange juice as indispensable for the artificially fed baby and desirable for all children need no longer fear that their source may be cut off. Cooked green vegetables, rubbed through a sieve, can be given to young children, or raw vegetables such as swedes or carrots can be finely grated or pulped or sieved.

Some of these green vegetables, if they are cooked in such a way as to preserve the vitamin, can provide more of it, weight for weight, than does orange or lemon juice. Quick rise of temperature and fast cooking lead to greater preservation than the alternative method of gradual heating from cold water. All slow cooking methods, including baybox cooking, are detrimental to vegetables. Use during cooking of bicarbonate of soda increases the loss of vitamin C.

Here is a list of fruits and vegetables, named in order of their vitamin C content. It is rather astonishing to find our old friend, black currant, at the top of the list. In fact, this fruit contains twice the quantity of Vitamin C as the next named, which is cooked Brussels Sprouts.

Black currants, cooked Brussels Sprouts, raw Mustard and Cress, raw strawberries, cooked Broccoli, cooked Cabbage, cooked Cauliflower, raw Watercress, Oranges, Lemons, Gooseberries, Spinach, cooked.

TEN YEARS AGO

From Files of September 7, 1932

On their return from the Organists' Convention in Rochester, N.Y., Mr. and Mrs. W. Layton, of Flint, Michigan, stopped over with Mr. and Mrs. L. A. Bromley.

Mrs. C. H. Bean is spending a week at the home of her uncle, Mr. Homer Watson, Deon.

Mr. Godard, of Kirkland Lake, and Mrs. Cox, of Brighton, were guests of Mr. and Mrs. Thomas Little.

Mr. and Mrs. S. Rittenhouse, of Vineland, and their daughter, Miss Vera Rittenhouse, of Florida, visited with Mr. and Mrs. J. O. Moore, Kerman Avenue, on Sunday.

Professor V. W. Jackson, of the University of Manitoba, accompanied by his family, visited with his sister, Mrs. L. A. Bromley, en route to Winnipeg, after spending the summer lecturing at Chautauqua, N.Y.

Mr. and Mrs. Robert Mackie entertained the Grimsby Centre young people with a corn roast last Monday evening.

Master Errol Stetzinger, of St. Catharines, is visiting his grandmother, Mrs. H. Krick, Grimsby Centre.

A re-union of the Norton family was held at the pumping station park on Sunday, August 28th, when the members of this well-known family, children and grandchildren, spent a very pleasant time together. Among them were Mr. and Mrs. A. P. Norton and family, Mr. and Mrs. Fred W. Norton and family, Mr. and Mrs. Caldwell and family, Dundas, Mr. and Mrs. Roy Norton and family, Hamilton, Mr. and Mrs. Gordon McBride and family, Mr. and Mrs. E. J. Norton and family, and Mr. and Mrs. J. E. Scott and family.

Mr. G. G. Bourne, town clerk, last week attended the meetings of the Ontario Municipal Association, as the representative of the municipality, the sessions being held on Thursday and Friday in the City Hall, Toronto.

During the week the waterworks reservoir on the mountain side was cleaned out. The reservoir, which was damaged by a rock slide in the spring when falling rocks punched a hole in the cement top, was also repaired.

Lincoln Loyalist Chapter, L.O.D.E., will hold their Tag Day on Saturday next, Sept. 10th, the proceeds to go towards relief during the coming winter. It is the hope of the Chapter that there will be a generous response from the citizens.

On Tuesday night, Sept. 6th, about twenty friends met at the home of Mr. and Mrs. T. C. Voight, and tendered a surprise party on the occasion of their wedding anniversary. The evening was spent in playing bridge, and the first prize for the ladies was won by Mrs. Wm. Shafer, while Mr. Wm. Baisley was the winner of the men's prize.

On September 6th, the home of Mr. and Mrs. Eric Ollie, of Sparta, was the scene of a happy gathering, the occasion being the ninth re-union of the Ollie family. The weather was ideal and guests to the number of fifty-five were present from Akron, Detroit, Fort Wayne, London, St. Thomas, Ingersoll, Grimsby, Dunaville, St. Catharines, Fonthill, and Caledonia, and all seemed to be in happy, social mood. Mr. and Mrs. James Theal and family were present from Grimsby.

"Marching music for infantrymen has not developed during this war to the extent of producing a popular hit such as 'Colonel Bogey', or 'The Contemptible', so well known during the First World War," commented Captain T. Captain Jackson, a veteran of the first war, was recently elected president of the Canadian Bandmasters' Association. "Much of the marching music heard today," said Captain Jackson, "dates from the last war including many of the popular Sousa marches, indeed we are now playing band music that goes back sixty years or more. Milk Drinkers Can Sit Back At Ease
knowing Beverage Not Cause Of Fat

"I know I should drink more milk, but I'm so afraid of getting fat." That's a favorite saying of girls and women who are keeping an anxious eye on the bathroom scales. What they don't realize is that milk is not the fattening villain; it is sometimes made out to be. Pastry, jam, rich desserts, chocolate mousse and other fatty and starchy foods are the true culprits; they will make the daily calorie total go sky-high. But no one will ever get fat from drinking a half-pint to a pint of milk a day.

Women (or men) who don't have at least a half-pint every day cannot possibly be getting enough calcium in their diet. And calcium is needed for the strong teeth that are just as important to beauty as a slim figure.

Those who are actually on a reducing diet can get their quota in the form of buttermilk or skim milk, both of which contain protein, calcium and B vitamins without the fat of whole milk. No matter how much you are haunted by the bogey of being overweight, don't cheat yourself out of your daily milk!

THE NEW INCOME TAX
PART I - As it Affects
SALARY AND WAGE EARNERS

1. Question: WHO MUST PAY?

Answer: All persons in receipt of incomes over $1600 single—or $1200 married.

2. Question: WHAT FORMS DO YOU HAVE TO FILL OUT?

Answer: Unless you are single, without dependents, and not making payments for allowable personal savings (item 3D), you should fill Form TD-1 with your employer. Otherwise he must deduct the amounts provided by the Table of Tax Deductions for a single person without dependents or personal savings.

If 1/4 or more of your income comes from salary or wages, you must file your 1942 Income Return by 30th September 1943. If your income is not over $1,000, including not over $100 from investment, you will use Form T-1-Special; otherwise you will use Form T-1.

3. Question: WHEN AND HOW IS YOUR TAX COLLECTED?

Answer: Your employer is required by law to make deductions from your salary or wages on account of your 1942 tax during the period September 1942 to August 1943. Each deduction must be the amount provided by the official Table of Tax Deductions for your current rate of pay, and family status and personal savings as declared on Form TD-1 (item 2 above).

The Table is designed to collect about 90% of the tax on your salary or wages, leaving a balance of not more than 10%, in most cases, (plus tax on your other income, if any) to be paid with your Income Return to be filed in September 1943.

If your salary or wages are less than 1/4 of your income, you must pay tax on your other income by compulsory instalments. (See Part II below).

4. Question: WHAT CONSTITUTES TAXABLE INCOME?

Answer: Your income is made up of your full salary or wages before any deductions whatsoever, plus living allowances, gratuities or bonuses (including cost of living bonus) and the value of any board, living quarters or supplies, etc., given you by your employer. It also includes such receipts as interest and dividends, rents (after taxes, repairs, etc.), royalties and annuities. From your total income you deduct payments (up to $300) into certain types of employees' superannuation or pension funds, charitable donations up to 10% of your income, and medical expenses over 5% of your income (maximum—$400 single, $600 married, plus $100 for each dependent up to four); to find the amount of your taxable income.

5. Question: HOW MUCH DO YOU PAY?

Answer: (A) Normal Tax—(whatever rate is applicable is applied to the full amount of

A booklet entitled
"YOUR 1942 INCOME TAX" will be available shortly at offices of Inspectors of Income Tax.

(D) Tax Credit for Personal Savings—

You may deduct from the savings portion of your tax (item 6) 1942 payments on account of—

(1) an approved employee's (or trade union) superannuation, retirement or pension fund;

(2) premiums on life insurance policies issued prior to 23rd June 1942 (if issued after that date ask your insurance company or Inspector of Income Tax);

(3) annuity or savings policies not payable without substantial loss or forfeiture; and

(4) principal payments on a mortgage or agreement of sale, existing prior to 23rd June, 1942, on one residential property; provided (a) they do not exceed the savings portion and (b) receipts are produced for the payments when filing your Income Return.

(E) National Defence Tax—

This tax does not apply after 31st August, 1942. The deductions made during January to August 1942 apply as a payment on account of your 1942 tax.

6. Question: HOW MUCH OF YOUR TAX IS SAVINGS?

Answer:

(1) Single—the lesser of

(a) 1/2 the total of your Normal Tax, Graduated Tax and Surtax; or

(b) 10% of your taxable income (maximum $1000) plus 1% for each dependent (maximum $100 for each).

(2) Married (or equivalent status)—the lesser of

(a) 1/2 the total of your Normal Tax, Graduated Tax and Surtax; or

(b) 10% of your taxable income (maximum $1000) plus 1% for each dependent (maximum $100 for each).

You will get back the savings portion of your tax which you actually pay, plus 2% interest, after the war.

PART II - As it Affects

PERSONS OTHER THAN SALARY and WAGE EARNERS

(such as business or professional men, investors, and persons on commission)

1. PAYMENTS—You must pay your 1942 income tax by quarterly instalments beginning on the fifteenth day of October 1942. Remittance from T-7-B individuals, to be sent in with your payments, may be made from Inspectors of Income Tax some time in September.

2. RETURNS—You file your 1942 Income Return on Form T-1, on or before the thirtieth day of April 1943.
NOTE—Items 1, 4, 5 and 6 of Part I also apply.

IF YOU ARE AN EMPLOYER paying any person on a daily, weekly, monthly or any other basis, it is your responsibility to deduct Income Tax instalments from the salaries or wages you pay, commencing with the first pay period beginning in September, and send the amounts deducted to your Inspector of Income Tax within one week from the pay period. There are severe penalties for failure to deduct or remit. If you are in doubt as to your obligations to deduct, communicate with your Inspector of Income Tax at once.

New Stoves Are Available If Need Proved Urgent

Canadians on farms and in towns and villages are greatly relieved by the recent order from the Department of Munitions and Supply taking electric cooking ranges and stoves of more than 25 amperes; combination coal and electric ranges and electric ranges off the "frozen" list, and allowing purchases on a limited basis.

The would-be purchaser may buy a stove only if he can prove that he really needs one. He must be prepared to back up his claim. Perhaps he doesn't have a stove, and must obtain one because he is moving into a building which cannot be equipped with a gas, coal or wood stove. Or he may state that his present stove is so old or obsolete that it is beyond repair.

He must file in triplicate a certificate stating why he believes he is entitled to buy the new stove. Application forms for new stove purchases can be obtained at all regional offices of the Wartime Prices and Trade Board.

Before attempting to buy a stove, the purchaser should find out from the local power company whether or not he will be allowed to install the necessary wiring and purchase the required power. Wiring and power is needed for vital war jobs. As there is a scarcity of wiring and power, new installations are forbidden in some parts of the country.

Handle Firearms
Very Carefully

With the hunting season underway in most Canadian Provinces, eternal vigilance is the price of safety, so far as handling of firearms is concerned. The recurring reports of accidents, many of them fatal, due to carelessness or inexperienced persons handling guns, led E. G. Poole, Fish and Game authority of the Canadian National Railways to suggest the need of safety.

"Safe carrying of guns must become a definite habit," said Mr. Poole in making his suggestion. The muzzle of a carried gun must never sweep the horizon. If an accidental discharge takes place it should send the shot into the ground before the feet of the person carrying the gun, or into the air.

These suggestions are: Hold the gun in the hollow of the arm, (preferably the left) across the front of the person, with hand on grip and muzzle of gun elevated about forty-five degrees; hang gun by trigger guard hitched over forearm brought round to breast the stock passing behind the upper arm, muzzle of gun pointing a pace or so in front of bearer; shoulder the gun, with hand on grip of heelplate, muzzle pointing upwards at least forty-five degrees.

The gun may also be carried, shouldered in reverse position, the hand grasping the barrel about the middle and the muzzle pointing forward and down. This method is admissible, but is awkward for recovery purposes.

A loaded gun should always be carried at half-cock, Mr. Poole emphasized, unless the person carrying it is about to shoot. The muzzle of a gun should never be allowed to point towards the person carrying it, nor towards any other person. Guns being taken into boats and vehicles or over fences should precede the person carrying them. Cartridges should be removed on entering camp or house and loaded guns should never be aimed at anything unless the holder intends to press the trigger. No loaded gun should be placed where it may be knocked down by a child or dog.

Perhaps the most frequent cause of shooting accidents is the dangerous habit of some hunters who shoot "at something moving in the bushes", without first making certain that the moving object is the game they seek.

Few accidents happen to people who are careful of their guns" Mr. Poole stated. "The precepts of safety are simple. If they are generally observed lives can be saved during each hunting season. The hunter must never forget that the man who 'didn't know it was loaded' is always with us.

Obituary

G. L. BOOK

A life-long resident of the Grimsby district, George Lorne Bock, passed away on Sunday at Hamilton General Hospital in his eighty-sixth year. Of U. E. Loyalist descent, he was engaged until his retirement a few years ago in fruit farming on the lands occupied successively by his grandfather and father near Grimsby Beach.

One daughter, Mrs. George Marr, Grimsby, survives him; also a sister, Mrs. C. A. F. Smith, also of Grimsby.

The funeral service was held in St. Andrew's church on Tuesday afternoon, with interment in the adjoining churchyard. The pall-bearers were three grandsons, Gordon, Sandy and Ian Marr; and Robert Dixon, Robert Goodman and C. E. Norris.

Dad's In The Army Now

"Now listen, Dad," I said, "don't be so foolish at your age, for the army can't want men as old as you."

"Why, Ma," he said, "you're crazy," as he flew up in a rage. I've got the letter saying that I'll do.

I looked at it, and there it was as plain as it could be: "Report at Exhibition Grounds on Monday." I couldn't realize that Dad would soon be leavin' me. Why, goodness! he'll be gone there on Sunday.

"I'll have to wear those heavy boots like George and Herbis wear," Said Dad. "I won't like that, I will admit. I'll go up and see Tom Gammie, he's the man who's workin' there; He'll fix me up, and give me shoes to fit."

"What is it you'll be doin' in the army, Pa?" I said. "Will you be flyin' bomber planes, perhaps? And maybe you'll be steerin' one, and goin' right head, And bumpin' all the Germans and the Japs."

"Now look here," said Dad, "That's too easy stuff for me; I'll be sending homin' pigeons o'er the land. Oh yes, I used to raise them. It's important, don't you see, To get someone who knows them, understand?"

"I might be flight-lieutenant, Ma," he said, "before I'm done, At flyin' all those birds instead of planes. At least I'll have a pair of wings before the war is won. And maybe I'll be Sergeant-Major James."

You know, I feel real proud of Pa, I hate to see him go. I know that they are needin' men like him. He'll show those guys that's over there just what they want to know, And maybe do it for them 'fore they win.

"Be sure and be real careful, Dad, and watch you don't get damp. If you do you'll get your rheumatism back. I'll be lookin' for your letters, you can write 'em in the camp, And can send them with the pigeons, Pa, by heck!"

Obituary

MRS. H. J. CLARRY

In the passing of Mrs. H. J. Clarry at her home, Main Street early Sunday morning, Grimsby has lost a citizen of a type all to rare in any community. Her maiden name was Annette Pike, and her home from birth till the time of her marriage was in Marathon Township. She has been a resident of Grimsby for the last fifteen years.

In failing health for some sixteen months she was, previous to that time an indefatigable worker in her church. A valued member of Trinity Church Choir, she was always in her place and a central figure in all its activities. Nor was her interest in her own church only; she was an earnest worker in all movements for the betterment of the community. She was active in the W.C.T.U. and the Red Cross Society, and was, at the time of her death a director of Grimsby Horticultural Society.

An enthusiastic gardener, she looked upon her flowers as messengers of love to be used for brightening the lives of sick folk and lonely hearts. For years she supplied and arranged the floral decorations in Trinity United Church and afterwards distributed the flowers, personally, to the sick and shut-ins of the congregation. Many of the shrubs beautifying the church grounds to-day were gathered and planted by her hands.

Mrs. Clarry leaves, beside her husband, one brother, Fred, on the old homestead at Locust Hill. The funeral service will be held on Monday evening at the Stonehenge Funeral Home, with interment at Locust Hill Cemetery on Tuesday afternoon; her pastor Rev. W. J. Watt officiating. Besides friends from Toronto and the Locust Hill District, there were present Rev. J. N. and Mrs. Clarry, of Tobermory, and Mr. Walter Ressor, of Lindsay.

Might Hale Owners Of Untagged Dogs Into Police Court

The monthly report of the police commission showed that three offenders under the Lord's Day Act paid eleven dollar fines out of court last month. These offenders were some of the young men caught playing dices early Sunday morning on two occasions. The fines were paid out of court. One vagrant, "Booty" Campbell, received ten days in jail following his conviction for vagrancy.

It is now ILLEGAL to HOARD scrap steel or UNUSABLE machinery

The Steel Controller has ordered that, after September 15, 1942, no person may retain in his possession scrap iron or steel weighing a ton or more unless he has a permit.

(For the purpose of the new regulations, scrap metal includes machinery, structural steel, or any other article or commodity containing iron or steel, which is not serving an immediate vital purpose.)

The order also provides:

That anyone, carrying into possession after September 15 of scrap iron or steel weighing 200 pounds or more, must dispose of it within 30 days.

That any person having a valid reason for not disposing of scrap metal as scrap metal or who believes that it can serve some essential purpose, must send in a report by September 15 to the Used Goods Building, Toronto. His report must reveal the exact description, quantity, and location of his scrap metal.

The provisions of the order do not apply to scrap dealers who are already subject to previous orders; nor do they affect metal fabricators and processors who are in legal possession of metal to be used in manufacturing.

A copy of the order, S.C. 16, may be obtained from the Steel Controller, Department of Munitions and Supply, Ottawa.

Violations of the new regulations are subject to a fine of up to $5,000, or imprisonment of up to five years, or both fine and imprisonment.
